

THIS! IS CANADA

VOILA! LE CANADA

Interpretation

I have created a map depicting the different parks in all of Vancouver. Parks and nature are a huge part of my city and I cherish the environment I've grown up in, so I figured that my map should encompass this passion. I included 4 major parks in Vancouver: Pacific Spirit, Queen Elizabeth, Hastings and Stanley Park. I have a special connection to each one as they are a vital part of my community. There are animal sanctuaries and conservations all around in these places, which hold an important place in my heart. The dozens of purple squares are all smaller parks around Vancouver. There are large patches of green that are golf courses and schools, however I focused my map on parks, so I have just highlighted those.

The parks and greenery shown in my map provide a great picture of just how green Vancouver is, as well as showing which areas are the most lush. As a major city in Canada, I'm proud of just how much nature we've incorporated into the city, however it saddens me to see how sparse the parks are in some areas. I'm very grateful to have grown up in such a wonderful city full of nature and the wild!
